Translator's Note

This is a translation of the Sikh Rehit Maryada originally published in Punjabi by the Dharam Parchar Committee of the Shromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar. For the purpose of this translation, the 19th edition issued in 1993, printed at the Golden Offset Press (Shromani Committee), Gurdwara Ramsar Sahib, Sri Amritsar, was used.

An attempt has been made to ensure that the translation be page by page, i.e., each page of the translated version corresponds, more or less, to the page with the same number in the original. The paragraph structure of the original has been retained. Some Punjabi terms are difficult to translate properly. These have been stated as transliterations and italicized. At places, the original form in Punjabi has been given. If translations appear in such cases, they are placed in quotation marks. A glossary of Punjabi terms is included at the end. A table of contents has been added at the beginning of the document.
Tankhaah: A fault.
Tankhatiya: One who is at fault; defined in Sikh Rehit Maryada on page 27.
Vaak: Same as Hukam.
Vaar: Sets of verses in Sri Guru Granth Sahib which are sung to the tune of ballads. These typically consist of a string of pauris occasionally augmented by Slokes.
Vaheguru: The Sikh term for God.
Vairaag: Detachment or separation from one's beloved.

there is no punishment for it. Do not keep the company of Sirgums, Nari-mar (who, being a Sikh, commits these acts). Be engaged in the service of the Panth and the gurdwaras; give Guru's daswandh (one-tenth) out of your earnings; and do everything according to Gurmat.

Remain part of the organization (as beads on a common string) according to the principles of the Khalsa Faith. If there is an error in following the Rehit, present yourself in an assembly of the Khalsa and humbly ask for forgiveness of tankhaah and be careful in the future.”

(q) The following are tankhaaiyas.

1). Any one who associates# with Minas, Masands, Dhirmalias, Ramrayyas, and other enemies of the Panh; or with Nari-mars, with those who practice female infanticide, or Sirgums becomes a tankhaaiya.

2) One who eats food left over by, or shares food with, a person who has not taken Amrit.

3) One who dyes his beard.

4) One who sells or buys marriage for his/her son or daughter.

5) One who use any intoxicant (marijuana, opium, alcohol, poppy seeds, cocaine, etc.).

6) One who performs any ceremony contrary to Gurmat.

7) One who has violated any of the Rehit.

(r) After imparting this instruction, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall say the Aroosa.

(s) Then, the Singh sitting in tabiaa shall take the Hukam. If any of those who have received Amrit did not have his/her name selected from Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, should receive a new name at this time.

(t) Finally, Karah Parshad shall be distributed. All the Singhs and Singhnis who have boarded the ship (of the Guru) shall eat Karah Parshad out of the same baataa.

* Sirgum is one who having had uncut hair cuts it off.
By association is meant association of eating together or intermarriage. Explicitly, it means associations of brotherhood created through intermarriage. Guru Sahib intended to unite the Panth so that separate centers of gurudom or of hybrid versions of Sikh Faith do not arise.
 Out of these, it is all right to associate with ones who take Amrit and join the Panth.
'One God, Eternal, Reality, The Name, Creator and Doer, All-pervading, Without fear, Without enmity, Timeless Form, Unincarnate, Self-existent, (understood) through the Guru's grace.'

Next, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall tell them the Rehit: "As of today, 'siVgUr c> jnmE gvn imtAieaA' having been born to Satguru you have destroyed your cycle of birth and have joined the Khalsa Panth. Your spiritual Father is Sri Guru Gobind Singh Ji, spiritual Mother is Mata Sahib Kaur Ji and you are residents of Anandpur Sahib. Being children of the same Father, you are brothers among yourselves and with all the other Amritdharis. Abandoning your previous family, deeds, actions and beliefs, that is, giving up even the thought of previous caste, family, birth, nationality or religion, you have become Khalsa. Besides the One Akal Purakh, you will not worship any god, goddess, incarnation, or messiah. You will accept no one other than the Ten Guru Sahibs and their Word as the bestower of liberation. You know Gurmukhi (if not you should learn it) and as a minimum you will daily recite or listen to them being read the Baanis: Jap, Jaap, the ten Swayyias (Sravag Sudh, etc.), So Dar Rehraas, and Sohila. You should read, or listen to the reading of, Sri Guru Granth Sahib and at all times keep with you the five kakkars; kes, kirpaan, *kachhehra, kangha and kara.#

"You shall not commit the following four kurehits:

1. Disrespect to hair.
2. Eating 'kuttha'.##
3. Adultery
4. Use of tobacco.

If any of these kurehits is committed, it will be necessary to receive Amrit over again. If a kurehit occurs against one's will or involuntarily,

* No limit can be placed on the length of a kirpaan.
 Kachhehra can be of any cloth but shall not extend below the knees.
Kara shall be made of Sarab-loh.
Kuttha means meat which is prepared according to Muslim rituals.
DEFINITION OF A SIKH

Any man or woman who has faith in One God, the Ten Guru Sahibs (From Sri Guru Nanak Dev Ji to Sri Guru Gobind Singh Sahib), Sri Guru Granth Sahib and the Baani and Teachings of the Ten Guru Sahibs; has faith in the Amrit of the Tenth King; and does not believe in any other religion; is a Sikh.

Sikh lifestyle is two-fold, Personal and Panthak.

PERSONAL LIVING

1. The practice of The Name and the Word.
2. Living in accordance with Guru's teachings.

1. The practice of The Name and The Word

i. A Sikh shall wake up at the ambrosial hour (three hours before sunrise), have a bath, and concentrating on Akal Purakh utter the Name 'Vaheguru'.

   ii. Recite the daily prayer. The Baani in the daily prayer are:

   Jap, Jaap, and the ten Swayyias (Sravag Sudh, etc.) - These Baani should be recited in the morning.

   So Dar Rehraas - To be recited in the evening after sunset. The following Baani are included in this:

   The nine Sabads (from 'So dar' to 'saran pare ki rakhho sarma') written in Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji; Bent Chaupai Patshahi 10 (from 'Hamri karo haath de rachha' to 'dusht dokh te leho bachai'); Sawayyia, 'Paen gahe jab te tumre'; and Dohra, 'Sagal duar ko chhad kae'; the first five pauris of Anand and the last pauri*. Mundavani; and Slok Mahla 5, 'Tera keeta jato nahn'.

   Sohila - This Baani should be recited at night before retiring.

   * On this occasion or at the end of a Diwan, the purpose of the recitation of Anand Sahib is expression of joy and gratitude at union with the Guru.
2. Amrit Sanskaar

(a) To administer Amrit, a special place should be arranged. It should not be open to public traffic.

(b) There should be Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. As a minimum, six Singhis in full readiness should be present out of which number one shall sit in tabia and the other five shall be available for administering Amrit. These could include Singhis as well. All of them must have washed their hair.

(c) None of the Five Beloved Ones shall be a disabled person (i.e., blind, blind in one eye, lame, armless, or having chronic illness). None should be a tankhaiya. All shall be fit and ready Singhis.

(d) Every man and woman from every country, every religion and caste, who pledges to adopt the Sikh Faith and to live according to its principles, has the right to receive Amrit.

The person should not be too young; should be old enough to have sound judgment. Every person desiring to receive Amrit shall have washed his/her hair; be wearing each of the five gaatra (kes, kirpaan in gaatra, kachhehra, kangha, and kara); have no symbol of any other religion; not be bareheaded or wearing a cap; have no ornaments with piercing; and shall stand reverently in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji.

(e) If someone has committed a kurehit (an infringement of the Rehit) and is seeking to receive Amrit again, the Five Beloved Ones shall separate him/her from the others and assign him/her tankhaiya in the congregation.

(f) Any one of the Five Beloved Ones administering Amrit shall instruct those seeking to receive Amrit in the principles of the Sikh Faith (as follows):

Sikh Faith teaches one to give up worship of the Creation and to worship the One Creator in love and devotion. To accomplish this, the principle means are study of Gurbani, service of the congregation of holy persons and of the Panth, service to others, love of (God's) Name and, having received Amrit, to lead a life following the Rehit. Are you happy to accept this Faith?

(g) After receiving an affirmative response, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall say the Ardaas for preparation of Amrit and take the Hukam. The Five Beloved Ones shall come and sit near the Baataa for preparation of Amrit.

After the daily prayer in the morning as well as in the evening it is important to say the Ardaas.

iii. (a) The Ardaas* is as follows:

There is but One God. Victory to Vaheguru.

May God protect us. Song of God (by) the Tenth King.

Having first remembered God, think of Guru Nanak; then think of Angad Guru, and Amar Das and Ram Das; may they help us. Remember Arjan, Hargobind and the great Har Rai. Let us think of the great Harkrishan whose sight dispels all sorrow. Let us think of Tegh Bahaadar, the nine treasures shall hasten to our homes. May they help us everywhere. May the Tenth King, Sri Guru Gobind Singh Sahib Ji, protect us everywhere. Think of the sight, of the reading, of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, the Light of the Ten Kings, and say: Vaheguru.

Think of the Five Beloved Ones; the four sons of the Master, the forty Saved Ones; steadfast, meditating and devout souls who recited the Name, shared their food with others, ran free kitchens, plded the sword, and overlooked the faults of others; think of the deeds of those dear and true ones, O Khalsa Ji, and say: Vaheguru.

Those Singh - men and women - who sacrificed their lives for the Faith, were cut up joint by joint, had their scalps scraped off, were broken on the wheel, were sawn alive, sacrificed their lives for the gurdwaras, but did not give up their Faith and lived their devotion to Sikhi with their hair intact to the last breath; think of those men, women and children, O Khalsa Ji, and say: Vaheguru.

Khalsa Ji, think of the five thrones and all the gurdwaras and say: Vaheguru.

First, the entire Khalsa prays to You. May the entire Khalsa remember Vaheguru, Vaheguru, Vaheguru; and, through this remembrance, may there be complete joy. May Your protection extend to the Khalsa wherever they might be. May their kitchens and their swords be blessed with victory; may Your Will prevail; may the Panth be victorious; may the Sword assist them; may the Khalsa be triumphant. Please say: Vaheguru.

*This is an example of Ardaas. There can be no alteration in the Sabad starting with 'Having first remembered God' and the last two sentences starting with 'O Nanak'
Grant to the Sikhs the gift of being Sikhs, of uncut hair, of Rehit, of discrimination, of faith and confidence; and the greatest gift of all, that of Your Name and a bath in Sri Amritsar Ji. May the choirs, banners and mansions of the Sikhs abide forever and ever. May righteousness triumph. Please say: Vaheguru.

May the Khalsa be humble in mind and exalted in understanding. May Vaheguru Himself guide their intellect.

O Eternal All-Pervading Merciful Giver, ever the Support of Your Panth, bless Your Sikhs with the gift of freely visiting and serving at Sri Nankana Sahib and other gurdwaras and Gurus’ homes from which the Panth has been separated.

Our True Father, Honor of the meek, Strength of the oppressed, Savior of the lost; Vaheguru, in Your Presence this is our Ardaas of ____.*

Forgive us our errors and omissions, any words added or missed. Fulfill the purposes of all.

Give us the company of only those beloved people, meeting whom we may remember Your Name. O Nanak, The Name is glorious. There is good for all in accepting Your Will.

After this, the entire congregation participating in the Ardaas shall respectfully make obeisance before Sri Guru Granth Sahib and then stand up and say; Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh. After that the Jaikaara of Sat Sri Akal should be shouted.

(b) During Ardaas all the men and women present should stand with hands folded. The person sitting in tabiaa of Sri Guru Granth Sahib also should stand up and continue to work the chowr.

(c) The person saying the Ardaas should stand with hands folded, facing Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, while saying the Ardaas.

* Here name the Baani which has been recited or describe in appropriate words the purpose for which the congregation has assembled.

3. Service

i. Service is an important part of Sikh Faith. In order to inculcate it, an example is set up in the gurdwara itself. Its common forms are these: sweeping the gurdwara, repairs, serving the congregation by fanning it or serving water, service in the Langar, cleaning shoes, etc.

(a) Guru ka Langar. This has two purposes: one is to teach Sikhs to serve, the second is to eliminate considerations of high and low and untouchability.

(b) Any person high or low, of any caste or color, can sit in Guru ka Langar and eat there. While seating in the pangat there should be no discrimination based on nationality, color, caste or faith. Of course, only Amritdharis can eat out of the same plate.

PANTHAK LIVING

1. Guru Panth
2. Amrit ceremony.
3. Procedure for declaring tankhaah.
5. Appeal against local decisions.

1. Guru Panth

Service is not limited to fanning (the congregation) or (serving in the) Langar. The entire life of a Sikh is dedicated to doing good to others. Fruitful service is one which can be maximized (in benefits) with modest effort. This can be achieved through organization. For this reason, while fulfilling personal living, one has at the same time to fulfill his/her panthak duties. This organization is called the Panth. Every Sikh, while being a part of the Panth, has to fulfill his/her personal living.

(a) ‘Guru Panth’: The collection of all Singhs who are in readiness is called the Panth. The Ten Guru Sahibs prepared it and the Tenth Guru Sahib created its final form and handed over the Guruship to it.
iv. The Congregational Practice of Gurbani.

Gurdwaras

(a) Gurbani is more effective in congregation. For this reason, it is proper for every Sikh visit the places of Sikh congregations and gurdwaras and benefit from Gurbani sitting in holy congregations.

(b) In the gurdwara, every day there shall be Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib. Unless there is a special reason (when it is necessary to have Parkash at night) there shall be no Parkash at night. Ordinarily, after the recitation of Rehraas, Sukh-Asan should be done. So long as the Granthi or other attendant is present in service of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, or the traffic of readers or visitors is going on, or there is no risk of irreverence, Parkash should continue. Afterwards, it is proper to do Sukh-Asan so there is no irreverence.

(c) Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji should be opened, read and closed reverently. For Parkash, it is important that the place be clean and tidy. There should be a Chandani overhead. Parkash should be done on the Manji Sahib after spreading clean cloth over it. To carefully open Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, cushions, etc., should be used and there should be a rumala on top as cover. When Paath is not being done, the rumala should stay in place. During Parkash, the chowr is also required.

(d) Besides the articles mentioned above, burning incense, performing Aarti with lighted oil lamps, presenting food (to Sri Guru Granth Sahib), lighting Jot, ringing bells, etc., are activities not according to Gurmat. Of course, to make the place fragrant, use of incense, flowers or other fragrances is not prohibited. Lamps of oil or ghee, candles, or electric lights should be used to provide lighting in the room.

(e) No book shall be installed in the manner used for Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. In the gurdwara, there shall be no idol-worship or any practice or ritual contrary to Gurmat nor should any festival or occasion of another religion observed there. Of course, using any occasion or gathering for preaching of Gurmat is not inappropriate.

(f) Pressing the legs of the bed of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, rubbing of noses against walls or on platforms, placing a jug of water under the Manji Sahib, making or keeping idols in gurdwaras, making obeisance to pictures of Guru Sahibs or Sikh elders; all such activities are manmat.

(g) When taking Sri Guru Granth Sahib from one place to another, Ardaas should be said. The person carrying Sri Guru Granth Sahib on his/her head should be barefoot but shoes may be worn if, in some situations, it becomes absolutely necessary to do so.

(h) The Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji shall be preceded by Ardaas. Upon Parkash, one Sabad shall be read from Sri Guru Granth Sahib.

(i) At the arrival of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, every Sikh should stand up in reverence regardless of whether there is already Parkash or not.

(j) Before entering a gurdwara, shoes must be left outside and one should be clean. If the feet are unclean or dirty, they should be washed with water. When walking around Sri Guru Granth Sahib or the gurdwara, care should be exercised that they are on one's right side at all times.

(k) There is no prohibition for person of any nationality, religion, or caste visiting a gurdwara. However, no person may have tobacco or other items forbidden to Sikhs in his/her possession.

(l) Upon entering a gurdwara, the first act of a Sikh should be to make obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib. After that, he/she should face the congregation, the image of the Guru, and politely say the greeting: Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh.

(m) For seating in congregation, there shall be no distinction based upon a person being Sikh or not, being untouchable, or on caste and ancestry being high or low.

(n) During the Satguru's Parkash, for any one to sit with a cushion, or on a mat, chair, pedestal or cot in other distinctive manner is manmat.

followed by the last verse of Anand Sahib. After that, the Ardaas for completion of the ceremony shall be said and Karah Parshad distributed.

(1) People of other faiths cannot be married according to Anand tradition.

(m) If at any time, for some reason, the bride's parents visit her home and, there, food is ready, they should not hesitate in partaking of it. Not eating food is mere superstition. Sri Guru Baba and Akal Purakh have blessed the Khalsa with eating and feeding. The bride's and groom's people should dine together. This is why the Guru has brought the two families together.*

(n) If a woman's husband is taken away by death, if she wishes, she may look for a suitable husband and remarry. If a Sikh's wife dies, the same order applies to him.

(o) Remarriage is performed in the same manner as described above for Anand.

(p) Under ordinary circumstances, a Sikh shall not marry another woman while the first one is living.

(q) An Amritdhari Singh should get his Singhni also to take Amrit.

iii. Death Sanskaar

(a) At the time of death, if a person is on a bed, he/she should not be taken off it and laid on the floor. There should be no burning of lamps or offering of cows or any other manmat ceremony. Only Gurbani or (the words) 'Vaheguru', 'Vaheguru' should be recited.

(b) After a person has given up the body, there should be no wailing, breast-beating or doing syapa. To bring the mind into acceptance of God's Will, it is good to do paath of Gurbani or continuing to say 'Vaheguru'.

(c) Regardless of how young the person is, he/she should be cremated. Where cremation cannot be arranged, the body should be immersed in water or disposed off in some other way. There should be no feeling of guilt on this account.

Prem Sumarag
the pattern of love of the human soul and the Supreme Soul (God) according to the meaning of Laavaan in Raag Soohi.

He (she) should tell them to be one light in two bodies through love and thus, fulfilling married life to become united with their common Beloved - Akal Purakh. Both have to make this union a means for the fulfillment of the sojourn of life in human form. Through this union, both have to live lives of purity under guidance from the Guru.

Then, the boy and the girl should be told their individual duties of married life.

The groom should be told that the bride's people have selected him as being the most suitable person; that he has to love his wife as part of himself under all circumstances and share his all with her; that he is the protector of her body and her honor; that he should be faithful; that he should honor her mother and father and relatives equally as his own mother and father and relatives.

The bride should be told that she has been united with this man in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib and the congregation; that, living in Nirmal Bhau of him, she should regard him as the object of her total love and devotion; that in joy as well as in sorrow, at home or abroad, she should be faithful to him and care for him; that she should regard his mother, father, and relatives same as her own mother, father, and relatives.

Accepting the teachings, both the bride and the groom should make obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. Then the groom's father or guardian should place one end of the groom's palla in the bride's hand and the person sitting in tabiaa should read the Laavaan given in Soohi Mahla 4. After each Laav has been read, with the groom leading and the bride following holding on to the palla, the couple shall circumambulate around Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji four times. During the circumambulation, the congregation or the Raagis shall sing the Laavaan in sequence. After each Laav, the groom and the bride should make obeisance and stand up to listen to the next Laav. At the end they should make obeisance and sit down at their places. The Raagis or the person officiating at the Anand should recite the first five verses

Kirtan

(a) In congregation, only a Sikh can do kirtan.
(b) Kirtan is the recitation of Gurbani in Raags.
(c) In congregation, kirtan can be done only from Gurbani or its interpretive composition by Bhai Gurdas Ji or from the Baani of Bhai Nandlal Ji.
(d) While reading Sabads with refrain of Jotiaan or in Raag, it is improper to sing or use extraneous self-made lines as refrain. Only a line from the Sabad should be made the refrain.

Taking Hukam

(a) Making obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib, respectfully seeing the congregation, the Image of the Guru, and reading or listening to the awaza, constitutes Satguru's darshan. Lifting the rumala of Sri Guru Granth Sahib to have a look or to show someone is manmat.
(b) At any time only one thing should be going on: kirtan or katha or lecture or paath.

(c) At the time of Diwan, in the congregation, only a Sikh (man or woman) is entitled to sit in tabiaa of Sri Guru Granth Sahib.

(d) Only a Sikh should read the Paath to the congregation. For oneself, any non-Sikh can also do it.

(e) While taking Hukam, the first Sabad at the top of the page on the left should be read from its beginning. If it begins on the previous page, the leaf should be turned, the reading should be started at its beginning and the complete Sabad should be read. If it is a Vaar, all the Stokes of the Pauri and the Pauri should be read. At the end of the Sabad, the reading should be finished at the line where the name 'Nanak' occurs.

(f) At the end of the Diwan, or after the Ardaas for completion, the final Hukam should be taken.

Simple Paath

(a) Every Sikh, if possible, should maintain a special place in his/her home for the Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib.

(b) Every Sikh, man, woman and child, should study Gurmukhi and learn to do Paath of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji.

(c) Every Sikh should take Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji's Hukam, in the early hours, before eating. Failing this, at some time or another during the day, he/she must read Sri Guru Granth Sahib or listen to a reading. If during travel or due to other constraints, he/she is unable to do this, no guilt should be felt.

(d) It is desirable that every Sikh should continue his/her Simple Paath and every month (or whatever period is practicable) complete the reading.

(e) At the start of a Paath, after the Paath of Anand Sahib (the first five pauris and the one last pauri) Ardaas should be said and Hukam taken. After that the Paath of Jap Sahib should be started.

Akhand Paath

(a) Akhand Paath is done at the time of some distress or joy. It takes approximately 48 hours to complete. In it Paath is done continuously

(c) Making a robe out of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji's rumala is manmat.

ii. Anand Sanskaar

(a) The marriage of a Sikh man and a Sikh woman should be without consideration of caste or subcaste or ancestry.

(b) A daughter of a Sikh shall marry only a Sikh.

(c) Sikh marriage shall be performed according to the Anand procedure.

(d) Child marriage is forbidden among Sikhs.

(e) When a girl has reached maturity in body, mind and conduct, and is marriageable, she should be married to a suitable Sikh man.

(f) A betrothal ceremony prior to Anand is not necessary. However, if one is to be performed, the woman's people should some day arrange for a gathering in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji and, having completed the Ardaas, should present a kirpan, a kara and some sweets to the young man.

(g) In fixing a date for Anand, reading horoscopes to search for date, day of the week, auspicious or bad days is manmat. Any day, which appears to be good, after consultation between the two parties, should be fixed.

(h) Wearing a Sehra, Mukat, or Gaana; worshipping forefathers; dipping feet in diluted milk; cutting a berry or Jand tree; filling a gharoli; sulking; reciting chhands; performing havan; setting up vedi; performances by dancing girls and use of alcohol are manmat.

(i) The bridegroom shall go to his in-laws' home taking with him the minimum number of persons desired by the bride's people. On both sides Sabads from Gurbani should be sung and they should greet each other with 'Fateh'.

(j) At the time of marriage, people should gather in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. The congregation or Raagis should do kirtan. Then, the bride and the bridegroom should be seated in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, the bride on the left of the bridegroom. Getting permission from the congregation, the person (man or woman) officiating at the ceremony, should ask the parents or guardians of the bride and the groom to stand up and should say the Ardaas for the start of Anand. After this, he (she) should give the bride and the groom advice regarding the duties of married life according to Gurmat.

First he (she) should give both of them joint advice which should include instructions for molding of the union of husband and wife on
(l) Guru's Sikh shall not kill female children nor have dealings with persons who do.
(m) Guru's Sikh shall live by honest labor.
(n) Guru's Sikh shall regard the mouth of a poor man as the Guru's treasure chest.
(o) Shall not steal, commit adultery, or gamble.
(p) A Sikh shall be said to be following the Rehit if he regards another's daughter as his own; another's wife as his mother; and is involved with his own wife.
   The same way, a Sikh woman shall live with devotion to her husband.
(q) Guru's Sikh shall follow the Guru's instructions from birth to death.
(r) Upon meeting another Sikh, a Sikh shall say: 'Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh'. This is the instruction for both men and women.
(s) It is not proper for Sikh women to observe purdah or to veil their faces.
(t) For a Sikh, there is no restriction regarding dress except the requirements of dastaar and kachhehra. For a Sikh woman, the wearing of a dastaar is optional.

i. Birth and Name Sanskaar

(a) When, after the birth of a child in the home of a Sikh, the mother is able to move about and have a bath (there is no restriction as to the number of days), the family and relatives should take Karah Parshad to the gurdwara or buy it and in the presence of Guru Ji read the Sabads expressing joy and thankfulness such as 'Parmesar ditta banna' (Sorath M:5), 'Satgur Saachae diya bhej' (Aasa M:5), etc. Afterwards, if a Paath of Sri Guru Granth Sahib had been started, it should be completed and the Vaak taken. The Granthi Singh shall propose a name starting with the first letter at the beginning of the Sabad of the Vaak and, after receiving the approval of the congregation, announce it. A boy's name shall be followed by 'Singh' and a girl's by 'Kaur'. After this, Anand Sahib (six pauris) shall be recited; Ardaas, describing the joy at the Name ceremony of the child in appropriate words, said; and Karah Parshad distributed.

(b) Child-birth is not to be considered as polluting because 'Birth and death are according to God's order. Persons come and go according to His Will. Food and drink are pure; God has caringly provided this sustenance.'

(15)__________________________18________________________

without interruption. The Paath should be clear and correct. Reading very fast in a way that a listener cannot understand it is showing disrespect to Gurbani. The reading should be clear and correct with care for letters and symbols even if it takes somewhat more time.

(b) The family or the congregation doing the Akhand Paath should do it themselves; members of the family, friends and relatives should jointly do it. The number of readers is not prescribed.
   If a person cannot do the Paath himself, he/she should listen to some good Paathi do it. However, it must not happen that the Paathi sits by himself/herself doing the Paath and no one from the congregation or the family listens. The Paathi should be properly served with food and clothing, etc., according to one's means.

(c) During an Akhand Paath or Paath of any other kind, placing jug of water, ghee lamps, coconut, etc., or continuing Paath from another Baani is manmat.

Start of Akhand Paath

At the start of a Simple Paath, Parshad should be brought, Anand Sahib (six pauris) recited, Ardaas said and Hukam taken.
   At the start of an Akhand Paath, there should be Karah Parshad, then Paath of Anand Sahib (six pauris). After that Ardaas should be said, Hukam taken and the Paath started.

Completion

(a) The Paath, (Simple or Akhand) of Sri Guru Granth Sahib shall be finished after reading Mundavani or Raagmala according to local tradition. (There is still difference of opinion in the Panth over this issue. For this reason, nobody should attempt to write or print copies of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji without the Raagmala). After this, Paath of Anand Sahib should be done, Ardaas of completion said and Karah Parshad distributed.

(b) At the time of completion, according to means and according to the needs of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, rumala, chowr, chanani, etc., should be presented, and Ardaas should be said for panthak purposes.
Karah Parshad

(a) Karah Parshad brought after preparing it or getting it prepared according to proper method will be accepted in the congregation.

(b) The procedure for preparing Karah Parshad is this. It should be prepared from three ingredients (flour, choice sugar, and ghee in equal parts) in a clean utensil while reciting Gurbani. Thereafter, covering it with a clean cloth, it should be placed on a clean stool in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib. In the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, the first five pauris and the last pauri of Anand Sahib shall be recited in a loud voice for the congregation to hear, the Ardaas said and in acceptance touched by a kirpaan.

(c) After this, before distributing to the congregation, portions for the Five Beloved Ones should be taken out and distributed. Afterwards, while distributing to the congregation, first it should be given to the Singh setting in tabia in a bowl and then to the rest of the congregation. There shall be no discrimination based on favoritism or hatred. Distribution should be equal for all Sikh or non-Sikh, low or high caste. While distributing Karah Parshad, there shall be no discrimination against any person in the congregation based on caste or ancestry or untouchability.

(d) While offering Karah Parshad, at least one taka cash should also be offered.

v. Katha of Gurbani

(a) In a congregation, only a Sikh should do katha of Gurbani.

(b) The purpose of the katha should be to affirm Gurus’ teachings.

(c) The katha can only be from the Baani of the Ten Guru Sahibs or Bhai Gurdas, Bhai Nandlal, or from supportive panthak book or books on history (which are in line with Gurus’ teachings) but not from books of any other religion. Of course, good teachings from any Mahatma or book can be used as illustrations.

(d) In the gurdwara, no lecture against Gurus’ teachings is permitted.

The congregational program in the gurdwara is generally like this:
Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, kirtan, katha, lectures, Anand Sahib, Ardaas, Fateh, Jaikaara of Sat Sri Akal, and Hukam.

2. Living in Accordance with Guru's Teachings.

The lifestyle of a Sikh, his work, his conduct shall be according to Gurmat. Gurmat is:

(a) Not to worship any god or goddess besides One Akal Purakh.

(b) To accept the Ten Guru Sahibs, Sri Guru Granth Sahib and the Baani of the Ten Guru Sahibs as one’s sole bestower of liberation and the object of reverence.

(c) To accept the Ten Guru Sahibs as one form and illumination from the same light.

(d) Not to have faith in caste, ancestry, untouchability and polluting contacts, magic, charms, omens, auspicious dates and times, position and movement of planets, sharadh, pittar, khiah, pind, pattal, ghee lamp, Hindu funeral rites, havan, yagya, tarpan, tuft of uncut hair, shaving the head at birth, fasting on the eleventh day of moon or the full moon etc., tilak, janeoo, tulsi mala, graves or mutth, crematorium, idol-worship etc. which are superstitious activities.

Besides the places of the Gurus, not to accept the place of pilgrimage or center of any other faith as his/her own.

Not to have faith in Muslim divines, Brahmans, clairvoyance, sukhna, sheerni, Vedas, Shastras, Gayatri, Gita, Qura'an, Bible, etc. Of course, for general knowledge it is proper to read books of the other faiths.

(e) Khalsa shall be distinct from all other faiths but shall not hurt the feelings of any person belonging to another faith.

(f) Before starting any activity, one should pray to God.

(g) For a Sikh it is important to learn Gurmukhi. He/she should acquire other learning too.

(h) It is the duty of a Sikh to instruct his/her children in Gurmukhi.

(i) Should not wish ill of the hair his son may have and should keep the same* hair; should name the son 'Singh'. A Sikh shall keep the hair of his/her sons and daughters intact.

(j) A Sikh shall not use intoxicants, e.g., marijuana, opium, alcohol, tobacco. His/her usual food should be bread.

(k) Piercing of ears and noses is forbidden to Sikh men and women.

* As at birth.
Karah Parshad

If it begins on the previous page, the leaf should be turned, the reading should be started at its beginning and the complete Sabad should be read. If it is a Vaar, all the Slokes of the Pauri and the Pauri should be read. At the end of the Sabad, the reading should be finished at the line where the name ‘Nanak’ occurs.

(f) At the end of the Diwan, or after the Ardaas for completion, the final Hukam should be taken.

Simple Paath

(a) Every Sikh, if possible, should maintain a special place in his/her home for the Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib.

(b) Every Sikh, man, woman and child, should study Gurmukhi and learn to do Paath of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji.

(c) Every Sikh should take Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji’s Hukam, in the early hours, before eating. Failing this, at some time or another during the day, he/she must read Sri Guru Granth Sahib or listen to a reading. If during travel or due to other constraints, he/she is unable to do this, no guilt should be felt.

(d) It is desirable that every Sikh should continue his/her Simple Paath and every month (or whatever period is practicable) complete the reading.

(e) At the start of a Paath, after the Paath of Anand Sahib (the first five pauris and the one last pauri) Ardaas should be said and Hukam taken. After that the Paath of Jap Sahib should be started.

Akhand Paath

(a) Akhand Paath is done at the time of some distress or joy. It takes approximately 48 hours to complete. In it Paath is done continuously

(c) Making a robe out of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji’s rumala is manmat.

ii. Anand Sanskaar

(a) The marriage of a Sikh man and a Sikh woman should be without consideration of caste or subcaste or ancestry.

(b) A daughter of a Sikh shall marry only a Sikh.

(c) Sikh marriage shall be performed according to the Anand procedure.

(d) Child marriage is forbidden among Sikhs.

(e) When a girl has reached maturity in body, mind and conduct, and is marriageable, she should be married to a suitable Sikh man.

(f) A betrothal ceremony prior to Anand is not necessary. However, if one is to be performed, the woman’s people should some day arrange for a gathering in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji and, having completed the Ardaas, should present a kirpaan, a kara and some sweets to the young man.

(g) In fixing a date for Anand, reading horoscopes to search for date, day of the week, auspicious or bad days is manmat. Any day, which appears to be good, after consultation between the two parties, should be fixed.

(h) Wearing a Sehra, Mukat, or Gaana; worshipping forefathers; dipping feet in diluted milk; cutting a berry or Jand tree; filling a gharoli; sulking; reciting chhands; performing havan; setting up vedis; performances by dancing girls and use of alcohol are manmat.

(i) The bridegroom shall go to his in-laws’ home taking with him the minimum number of persons desired by the bride's people. On both sides Sabads from Gurbani should be sung and they should greet each other with ‘Fateh’.

(j) At the time of marriage, people should gather in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. The congregation or Raagis should do kirtan. Then, the bride and the bridegroom should be seated in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, the bride on the left of the bridegroom. Getting permission from the congregation, the person (man or woman) officiating at the ceremony, should ask the parents or guardians of the bride and the groom to stand up and should say the Ardaas for the start of Anand. After this, he (she) should give the bride and the groom advice regarding the duties of married life according to Gurmat.

First he (she) should give both of them joint advice which should include instructions for molding of the union of husband and wife on the pattern of love of the human soul and the Supreme Soul (God) according to the meaning of Laavaan in Raag Soohi.

He (she) should tell them to be one light in two bodies through love and thus, fulfilling married life to become united with their common Beloved - Akal Purakh. Both have to make this union a means for the fulfillment of the sojourn of life in human form. Through this union, both have to live lives of purity under guidance from the Guru.

Then, the boy and the girl should be told their individual duties of married life.

The groom should be told that the bride's people have selected him as being the most suitable person; that he has to love his wife as part of himself under all circumstances and share his all with her; that he is the protector of her body and her honor; that he should be faithful; that he should honor her mother and father and relatives equally as his own mother and father and relatives.

The bride should be told that she has been united with this man in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib and the congregation; that, living in Nirmal Bhaau of him, she should regard him as the object of her total love and devotion; that in joy as well as in sorrow, at home or abroad, she should be faithful to him and care for him; that she should regard his mother, father, and relatives same as her own mother, father, and relatives.

Accepting the teachings, both the bride and the groom should make obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. Then the groom's father or guardian should place one end of the groom's palla in the bride's hand and the person sitting in tabiaa should read the Laavaan given in Soohi Mahila 4. After each Laav has been read, with the groom leading and the bride following holding on to the palla, the couple shall circumambulate around Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji four times. During the circumambulation, the congregation or the Raagis shall sing the Laavaan in sequence. After each Laav, the groom and the bride should make obeisance and stand up to listen to the next Laav. At the end they should make obeisance and sit down at their places. The Raagis or the person officiating at the Anand should recite the first five verses.

(o) No Sikh shall sit bareheaded in the congregation or during the period of Satguru's Parkash. For women to observe purdah or to veil their faces is against Gurmat.

(p) There are five thrones:
1. Sri Akal Takhat Sahib, Amritsar.
2. Takhat Sri Patna Sahib.
3. Takhat Sri Kesgarh Sahib, Anandpur.
4. Takhat Sri Hazoor Sahib, Nander.
5. Takhat Sri Damdama Sahib (Talwandi Sabo).

(q) Only Amritdhari (men or women) following the Rehit can climb up any of the thrones. (Ardaas for any person whether Sikh or not can be said at the thrones with the exception of the patit or tankhaiyya Sikhs).

(r) Every gurdwara shall have Nishaan Sahib at some high ground. The color of the cloth for Nishaan Sahib shall be basanti or surmai and at the head of Nishaan Sahib there should be a bhal of sarabloh or a khandaa.

(s) The gurdwara should have a Nagaara which should be sounded at appropriate times.

Kirtan

(a) In congregation, only a Sikh can do kirtan.

(b) Kirtan is the recitation of Gurbani in Raags.

(c) In congregation, kirtan can be done only from Gurbani or its interpretive composition by Bhai Gurdas Ji or from the Baani of Bhai Nandlal Ji.

(d) While reading Sabads with refrain of Jotiaan or in Raag, it is improper to sing or use extraneous self-made lines as refrain. Only a line from the Sabad should be made the refrain.

Taking Hukam

(a) Making obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib, respectfully seeing the congregation, the Image of the Guru, and reading or listening to the awaza, constitutes Satguru's darshan. Lifting the rumala of Sri Guru Granth Sahib to have a look or to show someone is manmat.
festival or occasion of another religion observed there. Of course, using any occasion or gathering for preaching of Gurmat is not inappropriate.

(f) Pressing the legs of the bed of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, rubbing of noses against walls or on platforms, placing a jug of water under the Manji Sahib, making or keeping idols in gurdwaras, making obeisance to pictures of Guru Sahibs or Sikh elders; all such activities are manmat.

(g) When taking Sri Guru Granth Sahib from one place to another, Ardaas should be said. The person carrying Sri Guru Granth Sahib on his/her head should be barefoot but shoes may be worn if, in some situations, it becomes absolutely necessary to do so.

(h) The Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji shall be preceded by Ardaas. Upon Parkash, one Sabad shall be read from Sri Guru Granth Sahib.

(i) At the arrival of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, every Sikh should stand up in reverence regardless of whether there is already Parkash or not.

(j) Before entering a gurdwara, shoes must be left outside and one should be clean. If the feet are unclean or dirty, they should be washed with water. When walking around Sri Guru Granth Sahib or the gurdwara, care should be exercised that they are on one's right side at all times.

(k) There is no prohibition for person of any nationality, religion, or caste visiting a gurdwara. However, no person may have tobacco or other items forbidden to Sikhs in his/her possession.

(l) Upon entering a gurdwara, the first act of a Sikh should be to make obeisance to Sri Guru Granth Sahib. After that, he/she should face the congregation, the image of the Guru, and politely say the greeting: Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh.

(m) For seating in congregation, there shall be no distinction based upon a person being Sikh or not, being untouchable, or on caste and ancestry being high or low.

(n) During the Satguru's Parkash, for any one to sit with a cushion, or on a mat, chair, pedestal or cot or in other distinctive manner is manmat.

followed by the last verse of Anand Sahib. After that, the Ardaas for completion of the ceremony shall be said and Karah Parshad distributed.

(k) People of other faiths cannot be married according to Anand tradition.

(l) The union of the boy or the girl shall not be in exchange for money.

(m) If at any time, for some reason, the bride's parents visit her home and, there, food is ready, they should not hesitate in partaking of it. Not eating food is mere superstition. Sri Guru Baba and Akal Purakh have blessed the Khalsa with eating and feeding. The bride's and groom's people should dine together. This is why the Guru has brought the two families together."

(n) If a woman's husband is taken away by death, if she wishes, she may look for a suitable husband and remarry. If a Sikh's wife dies, the same order applies to him.

(o) Remarriage is performed in the same manner as described above for Anand.

(p) Under ordinary circumstances, a Sikh shall not marry another woman while the first one is living.

(q) An Amritdhari Singh should get his Singhni also to take Amrit.

iii. Death Sanskaar

(a) At the time of death, if a person is on a bed, he(she) should not be taken off it and laid on the floor. There should be no burning of lamps or offering of cows or any other manmat ceremony. Only Gurbani or (the words) 'Vaheguru', 'Vaheguru' should be recited.

(b) After a person has given up the body, there should be no wailing, breast-beating or doing syaapa. To bring the mind into acceptance of God's Will, it is good to do paath of Gurbani or continuing to say 'Vaheguru'.

(c) Regardless of how young the person is, he(she) should be cremated. Where cremation cannot be arranged, the body should be immersed in water or disposed off in some other way. There should be no feeling of guilt on this account.

* Prem Sumarag
(d) There should be no consideration of day or night for the cremation.

(e) The dead body should be washed and dressed in clean clothes. The kakkars should not be separated (from the body). Placing (the dead body) on a plank, the Ardaas for departure (from this world) should be said. Then, the bier should be carried to the cremation site while reciting Sabads of Vairaag. Arriving at the site of the Sanskaar, a pyre shall be set up. Then, Ardaas shall be said for setting fire to the body. Then, placing the body on the pyre, a son or some other relative or friend shall light the fire. The congregation should sit at some distance and do kirtan or recite Sabads of Vairaag. When the fire is fully lit (performing kapaal kirya is manmat) the congregation should return after doing paath of kirtan Sohila and saying the Ardaas.

Upon coming home, or at a nearby gurdwara, paath of Sri Guru Granth Sahib shall be started. On the tenth day the Ardaas shall be said after paath of Anand Sahib (six pauris). If it cannot be done on the tenth day, any other day shall be fixed keeping in view the convenience of the relatives. The family and the relatives should jointly participate in this paath. If possible, there should be kirtan every night. After dussehra no other ceremony is left.

(f) After the pyre of the dead person has cooled off, all the ashes including bones should be collected and immersed in flowing water or buried and the ground leveled. Building memorials at the site of the dead person's Sanskaar is forbidden.

(g) Doing Adh Marag, syaapa, pioohri, devaa, pind, kirya, saraadh, budha marna, etc., are manmat. Picking ashes from the pyre and taking them for immersion in the Ganges, Patalpuri, Kartarpur and other places is manmat.

iv. Other Ceremonies

Other than these ceremonies, whenever there is any occasion for sorrow or joy (for example, entering a new home, opening a new shop, sending a child to school etc.) a Sikh should say Ardaas to seek Vaheguru's support. In Sikh faith the essential part of all ceremonies is the paath of Baani and Ardaas.

(d) In the case of a special Ardaas on behalf of one or more persons, it is not necessary for other people sitting in the congregation to stand.

iv. The Congregational Practice of Gurbani.

Gurdwaras

(a) Gurbani is more effective in congregation. For this reason, it is proper for every Sikh visit the places of Sikh congregations and gurdwaras and benefit from Gurbani sitting in holy congregations.

(b) In the gurdwara, every day there shall be Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib. Unless there is a special reason (when it is necessary to have Parkash at night) there shall be no Parkash at night. Ordinarily, after the recitation of Rehraas, Sukh-Asan should be done. So long as the Granthi or other attendant is present in service of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, or the traffic of readers or visitors is going on, or there is no risk of irreverence, Parkash should continue. Afterwards, it is proper to do Sukh-Asan so there is no irreverence.

(c) Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji should be opened, read and closed reverently. For Parkash, it is important that the place be clean and tidy. There should be a Chandani overhead. Parkash should be done on the Manji Sahib after spreading clean cloth over it. To carefully open Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, cushions, etc., should be used and there should be a rumala on top as cover. When Paath is not being done, the rumala should stay in place. During Parkash, the chowr is also required.

(d) Besides the articles mentioned above, burning incense, performing Aarti with lighted oil lamps, presenting food (to Sri Guru Granth Sahib), lighting Jot, ringing bells, etc., are activities not according to Gurmat. Of course, to make the place fragrant, use of incense, flowers or other fragrances is not prohibited. Lamps of oil or ghee, candles, or electric lights should be used to provide lighting in the room.

(e) No book shall be installed in the manner used for Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. In the gurdwara, there shall be no idol-worship or any practice or ritual contrary to Gurmat nor should any Grant to the Sikhs the gift of being Sikhs, of uncut hair, of Rehith, of discrimination, of faith and confidence; and the greatest gift of all, that of Your Name and a bath in Sri Amritsar Ji. May the choirs, banners and mansions of the Sikhs abide forever and ever. May righteousness triumph. Please say: Vaheguru.

May the Khalsa be humble in mind and exalted in understanding. May Vaheguru Himself guide their intellect.

O Eternal All-Pervading Merciful Giver, ever the Support of Your Panth, bless Your Sikhs with the gift of freely visiting and serving at Sri Nankana Sahib and other gurdwaras and Gurus’ homes from which the Panth has been separated.

Our True Father, Honor of the meek, Strength of the oppressed, Savior of the lost; Vaheguru, in Your Presence this is our Ardaas of ____________.

Forgive us our errors and omissions, any words added or missed. Fulfill the purposes of all.

Give us the company of only those beloved people, meeting whom we may remember Your Name. O Nanak, The Name is glorious. There is good for all in accepting Your Will.

After this, the entire congregation participating in the Ardaas shall respectfully make obeisance before Sri Guru Granth Sahib and then stand up and say: Vaheguru Ji kaKhalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh. After that the Jaikaara of Sat Sri Akal should be shouted.

(b) During Ardaas all the men and women present should stand with hands folded. The person sitting in tabiaa of Sri Guru Granth Sahib also should stand up and continue to work the chowr.

(c) The person saying the Ardaas should stand with hands folded, facing Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, while saying the Ardaas.

* Here name the Baani which has been recited or describe in appropriate words the purpose for which the congregation has assembled.

3. Service

i. Service is an important part of Sikh Faith. In order to inculcate it, an example is set up in the gurdwara itself. Its common forms are these: sweeping the gurdwara, repairs, serving the congregation by fanning it or serving water, service in the Langar, cleaning shoes, etc.

(a) Guru ka Langar. This has two purposes: one is to teach Sikhs to serve, the second is to eliminate considerations of high and low and untouchability.

(b) Any person high or low, of any caste or color, can sit in Guru ka Langar and eat there. While seating in the pangat there should be no discrimination based on nationality, color, caste or faith. Of course, only Amritdharis can eat out of the same plate.

PANTHAK LIVING

1. Guru Panth
2. Amrit ceremony.
3. Procedure for declaring tankhaah.
5. Appeal against local decisions.

1. Guru Panth

Service is not limited to fanning (the congregation) or (serving in the) Langar. The entire life of a Sikh is dedicated to doing good to others. Fruitful service is one which can be maximized (in benefits) with modest effort. This can be achieved through organization. For this reason, while fulfilling personal living, one has at the same time to fulfill his/her panthak duties. This organization is called the Panth. Every Sikh, while being a part of the Panth, has to fulfill his/her personal living.

(a) ‘Guru Panth’: The collection of all Singhs who are in readiness is called the Panth. The Ten Guru Sahibs prepared it and the Tenth Guru Sahib created its final form and handed over the Guruship to it.
2. Amrit Sanskaar

(a) To administer Amrit, a special place should be arranged. It should not be open to public traffic.

(b) There should be Parkash of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. As a minimum, six Singhs in full readiness should be present out of which number one shall sit in tabiaa and the other five shall be available for administering Amrit. These could include Singhuis as well. All of them must have washed their hair.

(c) None of the Five Beloved Ones shall be a disabled person (i.e., blind, blind in one eye, lame, armless, or having chronic illness). None should be a tankhaiya. All shall be fit and ready Singhs.

(d) Every man and woman from every country, every religion and caste, who pledges to adopt the Sikh Faith and to live according to its principles, has the right to receive Amrit. The person should not be too young; should be old enough to have sound judgment. Every person desiring to receive Amrit shall have washed his/her hair; be wearing each of the five *kakkar*s (kes, kirpaan in gaatra, kachhehra, kangha, and kara); have no symbol of any other religion; not be bareheaded or wearing a cap; have no ornaments with piercing; and shall stand reverently in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji.

(e) If someone has committed a kurehit (an infringement of the Rehit) and is seeking to receive Amrit again, the Five Beloved Ones shall separate him/her from the others and assign him/her tankhaah in the congregation.

(f) Any one of the Five Beloved Ones administering Amrit shall instruct those seeking to receive Amrit in the principles of the Sikh Faith (as follows):

Sikh Faith teaches one to give up worship of the Creation and to worship the One Creator in love and devotion. To accomplish this, the principle means are study of Gurbani, service of the congregation of holy persons and of the Panth, service to others, love of (God’s) Name and, having received Amrit, to lead a life following the Rehit. Are you happy to accept this Faith?

(g) After receiving an affirmative response, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall say the Ardaas for preparation of Amrit and take the Hukam. The Five Beloved Ones shall come and sit near the Baataa for preparation of Amrit.

iii. (a) The Ardaas is as follows:

There is but One God. Victory to Vaheguru.

May God protect us. Song of God (by) the Tenth King.

Having first remembered God, think of Guru Nanak; then think of Angad Guru, and Amar Das and Ram Das; may they help us. Remember Arjan, Hargobind and the great Har Rai. Let us think of the great Harkrishan whose sight dispels all sorrow. Let us think of Tegh Bahaadar, the nine treasures shall hasten to our homes. May they help us everywhere. May the Tenth King, Sri Guru Gobind Singh Sahib Ji, protect us everywhere. Think of the sight, of the reading, of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, the Light of the Ten Kings, and say: Vaheguru.

Think of the Five Beloved Ones; the four sons of the Master, the forty Saved Ones; steadfast, meditating and devout souls who recited the Name, shared their food with others, ran free kitchens, plied the sword, and overlooked the faults of others; think of the deeds of those dear and true ones, O Khalsa Ji, and say: Vaheguru.

Those Singhs - men and women - who sacrificed their lives for the Faith, were cut up joint by joint, had their scalps scraped off, were broken on the wheel, were sawn alive, sacrificed their lives for the gurdwaras, but did not give up their Faith and lived their devotion to Sikhi with their hair intact to the last breath; think of those men, women and children, O Khalsa Ji, and say: Vaheguru.

Khalsa Ji, think of the five thrones and all the gurdwaras and say: Vaheguru.

First, the entire Khalsa prays to You. May the entire Khalsa remember Vaheguru, Vaheguru, Vaheguru; and, through this remembrance, may there be complete joy. May Your protection extend to the Khalsa wherever they might be. May their kitchens and their swords be blessed with victory; may Your Will prevail; may the Panth be victorious; may the Sword assist them; may the Khalsa be triumphant. Please say: Vaheguru.

---

*This is an example of Ardaas. There can be no alteration in the Sabad starting with ‘Having first remembered God’ and the last two sentences starting with ‘O Nanak’
PRINCIPLES OF SIKH LIVING

DEFINITION OF A SIKH
Any man or woman who has faith in One God, the Ten Guru Sahibs (From Sri Guru Nanak Dev Ji to Sri Guru Gobind Singh Sahib), Sri Guru Granth Sahib and the Baani and Teachings of the Ten Guru Sahibs; has faith in the Amrit of the Tenth King; and does not believe in any other religion; is a Sikh.

Sikh lifestyle is two-fold, Personal and Panthak.

PERSONAL LIVING
1. The practice of The Name and the Word.
2. Living in accordance with Guru's teachings.

1. The practice of The Name and The Word
   i. A Sikh shall wake up at the ambrosial hour (three hours before sunrise), have a bath, and concentrating on Akal Purakh utter the Name 'Vaheguru'.
   ii. Recite the daily prayer. The Baani in the daily prayer are:
       Jap, Jaap and the ten Swayyias (Sravag Sudh, etc.) - These Baanis should be recited in the morning.
       So Dar Rehraas - To be recited in the evening after sunset. The following Baanis are included in this:
       The nine Sabads (from 'So dar' to 'saran pare ki rakhho sarma') written in Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji; Bentii Chaupai Patshahi 10 (from 'Hamri karo haath de rachha' to 'dusht dokh te leho bachai'); Sawayyia, 'Paen gohe jab te tumre'; and Dohra, 'Sagal duar ko chhad kae'; the first five pauris of Anand and the last pauri of Mundavani; and Sok Mahla 5, 'Tera keeta jato nahin'.
       Sohila - This Baani should be recited at night before retiring.
   * On this occasion or at the end of a Diwan, the purpose of the recitation of Anand Sahib is expression of joy and gratitude at union with the Guru.

(h) The Baataa shall be of Sarab-loh and should be placed on a clean object like a pedestal or Sunehra, etc.
(i) Clean water and Patasas shall be put in the Baataa and the Five Beloved Ones shall sit around it in Bir-Asan*.
(j) They should recite the following Baanis:
       Jap, Jaap, ten Swayyias (Sravag Sudh etc.), Bentii Chaupai (from 'Hamri karo haath de rachha' to 'dusht dokh te leho bachai'), Anand Sahib.
(k) The person reciting each Baani should keep his/her left hand on the rim of the Baataa and continue to stir the water with the right hand. His/her mind should be focussed. The others shall have both their hands on the rim of the Baataa and their attention towards the Amrit.
(l) After the Paath, one of the (Five) Beloved Ones shall say the Ardaas.
(m) Only a seeker who has participated in the entire ceremony during the preparation of Amrit can join in receiving Amrit. Any one who arrives halfway (through the ceremony) cannot join in.
(n) At this time, remembering Siri Kalgidhar, the Tenth King, our Father, each seeker of Amrit should be asked to sit in Bir-Asan, cup his/her hands by placing his right hand in the palm of the left hand, and given five helpings of the Amrit. As each helping is given, the following shall be said:
       'Say, Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh'. The receiver of Amrit shall drink it and say: 'Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh'. Then, the Amrit shall be sprinkled in his eyes five times and five times poured into his/her hair. At each step, the receiver of Amrit shall keep repeating 'Vaheguru Ji ka Khalsa Vaheguru Ji ki Fateh' after the one administering it. If there is Amrit left over, all the recipients, men and women, shall share it.
(o) Next, the Five Beloved Ones shall jointly, with one voice, tell those who have taken Amrit, Vaheguru's Name, recite the Mul Mantra and get them to repeatedly say:

* Bir-Asan: Sitting with the right knee placed on the ground with the weight of the right leg supported on the foot, and keeping the left knee raised up.
"One God, Eternal, Reality, The Name, Creator and Doer, All-pervading, Without fear, Without enmity, Timeless Form, Unincarnate, Self-existent, (understood) through the Guru's grace.'

(p) Next, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall tell them the Rehit:
"As of today, 'siVgUr c> jnmE gvn imtAieaA' having been born to Satguru you have destroyed your cycle of birth and have joined the Khalsa Panth. Your spiritual Father is Sri Guru Gobind Singh Ji, spiritual Mother is Mata Sahib Kaur Ji and you are residents of Anandpur Sahib. Being children of the same Father, you are brothers among yourselves and with all the other Amritdharis. Abandoning your previous family, deeds, actions and beliefs, that is, giving up even the thought of previous caste, family, birth, nationality or religion, you have become Khalsa. Besides the One Akal Purakh, you will not worship any god, goddess, incarnation, or messiah. You will accept no one other than the Ten Guru Sahibs and their Word as the bestower of liberation. You know Gurmukhi (if not you should learn it) and as a minimum you will daily recite - or listen to them being read - the Baanis: Jap, Jaap, the ten Swayyias (Sraav Sudh, etc.), So Dar Rehraas, and Sohila. You should read, or listen to the reading of, Sri Guru Granth Sahib and at all times keep with you the five kakkars; kes, kirpaan, kachhehra, kangha and kara.#

"You shall not commit the following four kurehits:

1. Disrespect to hair.
2. Eating 'kuttha'.##
3. Adultery
4. Use of tobacco.

If any of these kurehits is committed, it will be necessary to receive Amrit over again. If a kurehit occurs against one's will or involuntarily,

* No limit can be placed on the length of a kirpaan.
 Kachhehra can be of any cloth but shall not extend below the knees.
Kara shall be made of Sarab-loh.
Kuttha means meat which is prepared according to Muslim rituals.
there is no punishment for it. Do not keep the company of Sirgums,* Naramar (who, being a Sikh, commits these acts). Be engaged in the service of the Panth and the gurdwaras; give Guru's daswandh (one-tenth) out of your earnings; and do everything according to Gurmat.

Remain part of the organization (as beads on a common string) according to the principles of the Khalsa Faith. If there is an error in following the Rehit, present yourself in an assembly of the Khalsa and humbly ask for forgiveness of tankhah and be careful in the future.”

(q) The following are tankhaaiyas.

1. Any one who associates# with Minas,  Masands, Dhirmalias, Ramrayyas, and other enemies of the Panth; or with Nari-mar, with those who practice female infanticide, or Sirgums becomes a tankhaaiya.
2. One who eats food left over by, or shares food with, a person who has not taken Amrit.
3. One who dyes his beard.
4. One who sells or buys marriage for his/her son or daughter.
5. One who use any intoxicant (marijuana, opium, alcohol, poppy seeds, cocaine, etc.).
6. One who performs any ceremony contrary to Gurmat.
7. One who has violated any of the Rehit.

(r) After imparting this instruction, one of the Five Beloved Ones shall say the Ardaas.

(s) Then, the Singh sitting in tabiaa shall take the Hukam. If any of those who have received Amrit did not have his/her name selected from Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji, should receive a new name at this time.

(t) Finally, Karah Parshad shall be distributed. All the Singhis and Singhnis who have boarded the ship (of the Guru) shall eat Karah Parshad out of the same baataa.

* Sirgum is one who having had uncut hair cuts it off.
By association is meant association of eating together or intermarriage. Explicitly, it means associations of brotherhood created through intermarriage. Guru Sahib intended to unite the Panth so that separate centers of gurudom or of hybrid versions of Sikh Faith do not arise.
 Out of these, it is all right to associate with ones who take Amrit and join the Panth.
3. Procedure for Fixing Tankhaah

(a) If any Sikh happens to violate any part of the Rehit, he/she shall present himself/herself at a nearby congregation of the Guru and, standing before the congregation, confess his/her offense.

(b) Five Beloved Ones shall be selected from the congregation in the presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. They shall consider the lapse of the penitent and propose the tankhaah (penalty) to the Guru's congregation.

(c) The congregation shall not be stubborn while forgiving, nor should the one awarded the punishment hesitate in serving the punishment given. The punishment awarded should be any type of service, preferably one that can be carried out physically.

(d) Finally there should be Ardaas for the correction.

4. Procedure for Gurmata

(a) A Gurmata can only be held for those issues which support the fundamental principles of the Sikh Faith, that is, the status of Guru Sahibs or Guru Granth Sahib; purity of the Bir; Amrit; Rehit-Behit 'the lifestyle'; preserving the organization of the Panth. On any other routine (religious, educational, social, political) issue, only a mata 'consultation' can be held.

(b) Gurmata can only be done by the Shromani Jatha selected by the Panth or by a representative gathering of the Guru-Panth.

5. Appeal Against Local Decisions

Decisions of the local congregations can be appealed before Sri Akal Takhat Sahib.
(Khalsa Brotherhood) and, upon the opinions being received, will present it to a session of the Shromani Committee for final approval.

Subsequent to this, in line with the instructions of the Sh. Committee, the draft was reconsidered on 8 May 1932. The persons listed below were present:

Jathedar Teja Singh Ji; Sant Teja Singh Ji, Granthi, Sri Nankana Sahib; Giani Gurmukh Singh Ji 'Musafar'; Giani Nahar Singh Ji; S. Wasawa Singh Ji, Secretary Shromani Committee; Bhai Kartar Singh Ji Jhabbar; S. Waryam Singh Ji Garmula (Member Incharge Nankana Sahib); Bhai Partap Singh Ji Pustakanwale; S. Lal Singh Ji (Sh. Committee); Jathedar Mohan Singh Ji (Sri Akal Takhat Sahib) and others.

After this, upon the insistence of several persons, another meeting of the (ṛḥUl-ṛIV - Rahu-Reet) 'way of life' Committee was held on 26 September 1932. The following members attended this meeting:

Giani Sher Singh Ji; Giani Thakar Singh Ji; Giani Hamir Singh Ji; Bhai Labh Singh Ji; Granthi Sri Darbar Sahib; Giani Gurmukh Singh Ji 'Musafar'; Bhai Joginder Singh Ji (Assistant Jathedar, Takhat Sri Kesgarh Sahib); Jathedar Teja Singh Ji; Giani Nahar Singh Ji; and I, the Convenor.

In addition to them, Sant Teja Singh Ji M.A. also participated in the discussion. The Committee discussed the draft very thoroughly and carefully corrected it.

Now this draft is being again submitted to the Sh. Committee. Please have this draft published and send it to the congregations to get their final opinions. Simultaneously, to consider the draft and to give it final approval, a session of the Shromani Committee should be called.

1 October 1932

Your Servant,

Teja Singh, Convenor, the 'way of life' Committee.

Translator's Note

This is a translation of the Sikh Rehit Maryada originally published in Punjabi by the Dharam Parchar Committee of the Shromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, Amritsar. For the purpose of this translation, the 19th edition issued in 1993, printed at the Golden Offset Press (Shromani Committee), Gurdwara Ramsar Sahib, Sri Amritsar, was used.

An attempt has been made to ensure that the translation be page by page, i.e., each page of the translated version corresponds, more or less, to the page with the same number in the original. The paragraph structure of the original has been retained. Some Punjabi terms are difficult to translate properly. These have been stated as transliterations and italicized. At places, the original form in Punjabi has been given. If translations appear in such cases, they are placed in quotation marks. A glossary of Punjabi terms is included at the end. A table of contents has been added at the beginning of the document.
